Lac la Biche Groups Study Grant

Report Presented By UGG Agent

LAC LA BICHE — Due to a threatening dock workers' strike at the Vancouver terminals all purchases of tough and damp grains will be curtailed until further notice.

Our elevators are now filled with out-of-condition grain which we hoped we could store for the summer months without too much danger of it heating. However, since this grain needs constant turning from bin to bin and this requires further space, our elevator will not be able to make further purchases until such time that we resume shipments to the terminals, where they have drying facilities.

Ladies' Auxiliary For Lac la Biche

LAC LA BICHE — An organizational meeting to form a local branch of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion will be held in the Legion Cottage, June 16 at 8 p.m. Mrs. H. Williams, Edmonton, provincial president of the Ladies Auxiliary, will be present at this meeting.

All widows, wives, mothers, sisters and daughters, 18 years of age and over, of the men who served or are now serving with the armed forces are eligible to join.

All women shall be eligible for membership in the auxiliary who have served with the forces of the British Empire and her Allies in any of the wars and any mothers, sisters or daughters of such women are eligible to join.

Strange Reception On Rich Lake TV's

Rich Lake, located over 100 miles from Edmonton, is outside the fringe area for good reception from CFRN-TV. However several times Channel Two has come in fairly well on local sets.

After the Royal Wedding evening telecast it became impossible to obtain anything clearly from Channel Three because another station on the same channel was coming in. It was found that Channels two, five, seven and four could all be viewed. St. Paul-Minneapolis came in perfectly, as well as several California stations. It was a thrill to view the "Last Rodeo," a good show, from an American station.

Caslan Students Beat Hylo Team

HYLO — Caslan students played softball against Hylo junior high students on Thursday, June 2 and the score was 13-10 in favor of Caslan.

Collier's quintet offers experimental small-group selections with Collier playing trombone. Both groups offer unusual styles for lovers of modern jazz.

Increase Of 7 Mills In Tax Rate First In 4 Years For Lac La Biche

LAC LA BICHE — At a meeting called for that purpose on June 1, the town council set the 1960 tax mill rate at 58 mills on the dollar. This is an increase of seven mills over the rate used for the past four years.

The figure is divided into 35 mills for school purposes, 19 for municipal, and 4 for hospital purposes. The increase will apply entirely to municipal purposes, which only received 12 mills in the previous year.

This year's budget calls for a resumption of sidewalk construction and repairs, grading and gravelling a street and a lane, some additional street lights, installing natural gas at the town offices, repairs to the fire hall and some increase in operating costs. Revenues from sources other than taxes is $6,000.

In arriving at the figure of 58 mills, council was unanimous in its judgment that none of the estimated expenditures could be dispensed with. A small number of ratepayers who attended the meeting expressed the opinion that the increase was necessary.

Suggestions For Spending Of Funds Offered By Some 21 Organizations

LAC LA BICHE — A meeting of the various clubs, lodges, sports groups and other organizations was held in the town library May 3, to discuss proposals for making use of a grant which is being made to the town for recreational purposes. The grant is on a per capita basis and is part of the government's five-year plan for assisting local governments. The amount will be close to $14,000.

An opportunity was given for delegations from the various organizations to express their views on how the grant should be used. Out of 24 groups who were invited to send delegations to the meeting, 21 were represented. A brief summary of the wishes of the groups as expressed by spokesmen at the meeting is given below:

Lions Club: not backing any certain plan.

Canadian Legion: the following four plans listed in order of their importance. (a) Improvements to Memorial Hall. (1) Roof repairs.

(2) Stage curtain.

(3) Air conditioning.

(4) Exterior finishing.

(b) Beach development. Bath houses etc.

(c) Playground facilities for children.

(d) Development of the Band.

Knights of Columbus: No specific request.

Curling Club: Would like assistance in financing a new rink with four sheets of ice. Require a minimum of $6,400 from the grant. Other financing would be undertaken by the club itself.

Skating Rink Committee: Would like to establish a second skating rink to be used only for hockey.

Evangical Free Church Ladies: Request three children's playgrounds to be located at different points throughout the town and provided with suitable equipment.

Home and School Association: Requests proper beach facilities, including dressing rooms and wash rooms with supervision, also a playground.

Band Auxiliary: Asked for uniforms, cases for instruments, some new instruments, music and assistance either for subsidizing a qualified leader or for expenses for members to attend band clinics.

Women's Institute: Asked for beach development and improved skating facilities including a rink for hockey.

Ladies of St. Catherines: Beach playground, (at hospital) dressing rooms, small building at playground and park. Completion of the Memorial Hall.

Arabian Moslem Association: Asked that their school yard be gravelled and a fence provided for the grounds.

Civil Servants Association: No specific request.

Baseball Club: No further needs asked for from grant. Thanks for help already given.

Fire Brigade: Believe more should be done at the Memorial Hall. Emphasis should be toward help for the children.

United Church Ladies' Aid: In agreement with the Women's Institute and other women's organizations.

ATA: Felt that they would not send a delegation but would favor something to help the children.

Students' Union: Favored emphasizing the needs of the curling rink. Agreed with recommendations of all other groups.

Mayor Maccagno then spoke on his own opinions regarding the question being discussed. He mentioned the government's intention to develop Big Island Park, and thought it advisable that developments in the town should be related to this major development which will soon be taking place. He thanked the meeting for their interest and assured them that every recommendation put forward would be given careful consideration when the council makes the final decision as to where the recreational funds will be used.

THE Homemaker

By BERTHA M. McCUTCHEON

Be Careful! — Summer is the season for travel and vacations at the lake. It is also the season for illnesses due to digestive upsets. These usually are of a minor nature but they can also be quite serious. Toxins in food and bacteria in water may be responsible.

Never drink water from an unknown source without boiling or treating with a chlorine product.

B. McCutcheon

Keep all food carefully refrigerated especially left overs. Creamed foods are ideal for the growth of staphlyococcus infection. Do not prepare food if you have cuts or abrasions on the hands. When eating in strange restaurants it is well to avoid cream pies, creamed vegetables and thickened gravy. Most establishments keep such foods carefully refrigerated, but it is better to be safe than sorry.

If you are using spray for flies or other insects, store all food in covered containers in cupboard or refrigerator before you start. After gathering up and burning the dead insects wash all counter tops and tables and all the surfaces where small children can place their hands.

Now is the time to start planning your vacation. Make lists of clothing, food and all the other articles you will require. Where there are small children, planning is especially important. Supervision is also essential. Children are inquisitive and venturesome and adults must be constantly on guard to prevent tragedy.

$300 SCHOLARSHIP

A weed essay contest, which might prove the key to the future for some Alberta boy or girl, is again being sponsored by the North Central Weed Control Conference, states W. Lobay, Supervisor of Soils and Weed Control. The prize for the winning essay will be a $300 scholarship.

The contest is open to all boys and girls between 12 and 18 years of age whose families are actively engaged in farming and living in any of the three prairie provinces or the 14 north-central states. The esay entitled "How We Control Weeds on our Farm" should contain about 1,000 words. The winner in each province and state will receive a cash prize of $25 and his essay will be entered in the contest for the scholarship.

In Alberta the competition will be conducted by the Soils and Weed Division of the Field Crops Branch of the department of agriculture. Mr. Lobay who is in charge of the division, urges all eligible farm boys and girls including 4-H groups to participate in the contest. In some municipalities the same essay could be entered in similar contests for which attractive prizes will be offered by the municipality concerned.

NOTICE TO PARENTS OF SCHOOL BEGINNERS

Under Section 177 of The School Act, the County School Committee requires that entry to Grade I shall be confined to the commencement of the school year and limited to pupils who will have attained the full age of six (6) years on or before October 31st.

Our schools can offer only the regular first grade work for beginners and only the adequately mature children should be enrolled. An advantage is gained in the long run by a child being over age rather than under age on entering school.

In order to facilitate organizational planning for the 1960-61 school term, parents are asked to register with the principal of the school concerned. Failure to do so before June 15th, 1960 may deprive your child of admittance to school in September, 1960.

SURE-TRIP SAFETY STANDARDS...

Another Reason Why You Need a

JOHN DEERE PLOW

John Deere Sure-Trip Safety Standards provide more positive protection for plow and tractor than the best release-type hitches. Second, they put an end to the time-wasting nuisance of jockeying your tractor into exact position in the field and then getting down to recouple breakaway hitch and hoses. And third, you can trip them with a hand wrench (see photograph) and swing the bottoms back and up for convenience in changing shares.

But that's only one of many reasons why you need a modern John Deere Plow. There are many more, including low-cost, quality-built, surface-conditioned shares. Come in soon and let's talk plows!

Class Prophecies Of Graduates Presented At School Exercises

METRO ROSA

Remember in 1960 how busy Metro Rosa was. Between his school work, part time work at Rudiger's garage, and keeping up his social life, his time was all taken up.

Now we see him in 1972. He owns the biggest used-car lot in Lac la Biche. One of the great attractions is his museum. It contains, among other historic relics, the green Ford which he used to drive back in 1960, Stanley Davis's first motorcycle, Paul Rudiger's ancient red Buick which carried the MLA and the two unsuccessful candidates, and the wheelbarrow in which Ernie Countney rode in state, propelled by Mr. Chodan, in the great post-election parade of 1959.

DONALD GORDON

Because of Donald's bad nerves he always had to chew gum in school to keep him from going to pieces over a girl who sat near him. But the teachers just didn't see things Donald's way, so he always had to dump his gum into the waste paper basket at their command.

But now he's out of school and has an everlasting supply of gum since he built a factory and invented a new gum formula. One great disappointment came when he realized that nobody liked the gum except himself. However the day was saved when a large organization informed him that their product was improved 50% by the addition of his gum. So Don made his fortune by selling out to the Canada Cement Co.

ROBERT CHERKAS

Remember our tiny little Bob in 1960. Well, he's a big man now. Bob has given us all a good example of how education can be applied in business. He is now manager of Eaton's fresh air department.

MORRIS LINNELL

As you all know, our great physicist has disproved John Dalton's atomic theory. With a new technique which he has developed, he has broken atoms into smaller particles called "shmatoms."

With the money he received for the Nobel Prize he is planning to spend two years in the Arctic, with a two-fold purpose: First, to get away from publicity; and secondly, to collect material for his thesis entitled: "The Chemistry of Digestion of Caribou Moss in the stomach of a Musk-Ox."

LAWRENCE MEARDI

From his exceeding slow pace and a cloud of smoke, we can tell Larry is approaching. He is a farmer at heart and plans on specializing in two branches of this field. First he is going to develop a tobacco which will grow Player's kingsize filter cigarettes. Larry says it takes too much time to roll your own.

Next he is going to have the best dairy in the world. He is trying to develop a new strain which will produce any flavor of milk desired.

EUGENE LEBAS

This fair laddie, who had his heart set on the art of bull fighting, was surprised when he was chosen out of thousands to take the leading role with Celine Parent in the movie, "Lost on the Coast."

JOSEPHINE FORNARI

Remember in 1960 when Josephine would always say she wanted to stay young? Well now it's 1972. After leading expeditions to the Amazon and Congo in search of the fountain of youth, she is now back in Venice quite resigned to growing old gracefully.

It seems she gave up the search and where do we find Josephine? for the fountain of youth or the elixir after a very unfortunate incident. Her boy friend was told by an old doctor in the Congo that the transplanting of monkey glands would make him eternally young. However, it was found when the operation was over that all the doctor had done was make a monkey of him.

AURLA PRICE

As you stroll down Jasper Ave. in 1970, and if you happen to pass by the T. Eaton store, you will most likely se our Aurla Price modelling the latest bathing suits. As you agree, we all know her erect posture and her curvacious figure. But what is she doing here? We know that right after graduation she realized her lifelong ambition and became air hostess for TCA. Why did she quit? Miss Price explains it this way.

"When we had the Viscount Airliners they flew at 27000 feet and that agreed with me very well. But now TCA has the space jets. After one flight I decided they were not for me. They fly at 80,000 feet and I just cannot stand to be such a "high Price."

CELINE PARENT

After a series of romances with a succession of ardent admirers, including a radio operator, a meteorologist, a student, and an agriculturist, Celine has obtained fame that is known only to stars.

DORIS BERGHEIM

Doris was always interested in commercial work and now in 1972 she is private secretary and is engaged to a young handsome executive in room XP, on the 113 floor on the Empire State Building in New York. She entered the international typing competition and would have won easily with her rate of 250 words per minute, except for one mistake — she forgot to put the paper into the typewriter.

ELINOR SUNDERMAN

When Elinor first came to Dr. Swift School, she had us puzzled. Her ambition was to take commercial work or to join the Air Force. She attended commercial school and became very proficient at shorthand. But when she joined the airforce and they found out that she knew shorthand, they sent her to work in the kitchen because they were shorthanded there.

PHYLLIS KOZAK

Back in 1960 Phyllis always wanted to be a teacher. Now Phyllis finds herself engaged in exchange teaching. Her first stop was Mexico, where she learned to make tamales, weave sombreros,

Preventive Dental Program, Summer, 1960

The Athabasca Health Unit is implementing a Preventive Dental Health program for those urgent cases requiring dental care amongst the present Grade 1 children, and those children entering school this fall for the first time.

The Dental Unit will commence working at Lac La Biche on or about MONDAY, 13th June 1960. Other locations chosen for the unit are Grassland, Boyle, Athabasca, Smith, Slave Lake, Kinuso and Faust, in that order. Parents of all children chosen to attend the clinics will be sent appointment letters and will be responsible for bringing their children to the clinic at the appointed time. In all cases the Dental Unit will be located in the schools.

Those children entering school for the first time this fall need to be examined before dental treatment is decided upon. Parents will have received letters regarding this and are reminded to bring their children to the usual clinics without delay.

The success of failure of this program will depend upon the response of all parents and their full co-operation will be very much appreciated.

MEDICAL OFFICER OF HEALTH.

Sinus Relief By Chiropractor

By Dr. K. W. Tenove, Chiropractor

Some sinus victims have discomfort occasionally in the summer. But, when cold, damp weather arrives they really suffer. They know of some measures which will give temporary relief. But, in time, relief preparations seem to lose power and despair overtakes the sufferer.

It is indeed unfortunate for sinus sufferers that they do not fully understand the principles of Chiropractic and the application of Chiropractic to sinus discomfort. Many former sinus sufferers have had partial or complete recovery through Chiropractic care.

Sinuses are hollows within the bones of the head. They connect by narrow channels with the nose. The lining of the nose is, through these channels continuous with the lining of the sinuses.

In a congestion of the sinuses it is this lining that becomes congested and thickened.

In this congestion the cells of the lining form more mucus than normal, just as the lining of the nose does when it becomes congested in a "cold." The lining of the narrow channals between the sinuses and the nose becomes congested and retards, or prevents completely, the passage of mucus from the sinus to the nose for discharge.

As mucus, being prevented from escaping, gathers within the sinus, it gives rise to a pressure against the sore and congested lining and a sinus "headache" results.

When we think of congestion, we think of a disturbance of blood cirulation. When we think of circulation we cannot escape the thought that circulation of blood in all parts of the body, including the sinuses, is influenced by nerves, known as vaso-motor nerves. That being the case, the Chiropractor can, from the spinal column through vaso-motor nerves, reach the sinuses.

Although chiropractic care has been a welcome friend to many former sinus sufferers, we would urge present sufferers not to expect a sinusitis to recover in a few visits to the chiropractor's office. Most sufferers have had almost continuous trouble for a long time or repeated trouble for several winters. This indicates a long standing weakness in the sinus linings.

Recovery takes time. But the results of Chiropractic care have been gratifying to many thousands of former sinus sufferers.

and ride burros. Going through all these, and learing to cook many dishes, Phyl has returned to America and can't even cook an American meal any more. Always the great reformer, Phyllis' influence was felt even in Mexico. She persuaded the Mexican government to pass a law decreeing that the hot stuff called "chilli" must not be called "chilly" unless it is frozen.

Her next assignment is unquestionably due to her crusading spirit. We understand that she is to become private advisor to Fidel Castro.

JEAN KUPCHANKO

On that day in 1960, Jean Kupchanko was pensively seated as she thought of what she was going to do in the future; the thought of going to the home of her forefathers, a part of Austria which is now a part of Russia, struck her. A month later she left, armed only with her sparse knowledge of the Russian language and her lifelong savings.

Now we will turn the crystal ball to the year 1975. As the vision clears we see Jean bent over the pick axe working at one of the many salt mines in Siberia. It seems that when she met Khrushchev she said, "yak se myish" and Krushchev thought she said, "yak se miche."

CLARA MUNAWICH

This is the year 1972. We see a young lass being driven at a tremendous speed in one of her classy Mark IV's to the municipal airport. We won't know where she is going until we read about it in the paper.

As you all know, she is responsible for putting Owl River on the map. In her factory there, she produces a delicacy which is world renowned. It is made of Owl River pickerel and Owl River clams, and it goes under the name of "Clampick." We understand that her last big deal was made in Russia where our "Unpredictable Birdie" persuaded Krushchev to trade 100 tons of Russian caviar for 50 tons of "Clampick."

HELEN MISCHUK

Helen was never afraid of work.
The hardest task she would never shirk.
She realized her fondest wish.
And became a teacher in Lac la Biche.
Whatever she does, she does it well
Her pupils can read and write and spell.
She is happy in 1972.
That what she had hoped for has all come true.

LEOLA THOMPSON

To become a teacher she was inclined,
But a handsome farmer changed her mind,
And she left her chosen career behind.
To wash their faces and pick up their toys.

DAVID HAIMILA

David wanted to be a teacher or a doctor back in 1960. Now we see him in 1972, and what has he done? He has become an agriculturist.

David's fame rests solidly on one great accomplishment. He experimented with cattle out in the Rich Lake country and found that by inoculating them with gopher serum, he could make them burrow into the ground so that they didn't need a barn in the winter.

LYN WATAMANIUK

In grade 12, Biology 32 was Lyn's favorite subject. Her greatest enjoyment was dissecting organisms. Starting with grasshoppers, earthworms, frogs, and rats, she has finally achieved her goal as a surgical nurse. She is now very busy assisting Dr. Cuttup with all his operations.

She made only one serious mistake in all her work as a nurse. The patient is here tonight and you can see that he has never recovered. When Jimmy Rowland was a patient, she was ordered to give him an inoculation, but instead of using a hypodemic needle, she used a phonograph needle.

Lac la Biche Golf Course Now Open

The Lac la Biche golf course is now completed and ready for playing. The board of directors, at a recent meeting, decided to allow free golfing for the month of June and give free instruction every Thursday and Sunday afternoons at 3:00 p.m. so that all persons who have not golfed may try the game and learn its fundamentals at no cost.

The official grand opening of the course will be held Sunday, June 26 at 2 p.m., everybody is invited. Many top golfers will be present.

It was also passed by the board of directors that any "transferable employee" be granted the privilege of paying an extra $5 together with the regular annual membership fee for which he will be accorded all the privileges of the club and the $5 will be set aside as a non-refundable reserve account to be applied towards the purchase of a share should the person stay that long.

Membership fees for 1960 can be paid anytime to Hector Linnell, treasurer. The regular green fee to non-members has been set at 75c per round of nine holes. Guests should be accompanied by a club member to whom he will remit his green fee. If a non-member wishes to go golfing alone, he may do so as a guest of the club by paying his green fee in advance to J. A. Stewart at the drug store, Hector Linnell at the Imperial Bank or Dr. D. D. Bouvier at his clinic. The receipt will be a signed and dated score card. Score cards are available free to members from these three places.

Personally, we are not afraid we wil be struck by lightning while attending church, especially in clear weather.

HIGH INCIDENCE OF CARIES:

Athabasca Health Unit Offers Summer Dental Care For Kiddies

From a survey taken of children's teeth in the Athabasca health unit area it has been found that the incidence of caries is particularly high. Having only one dentist in the area, it is appreciated that all parents have not been able to get their children's dental health brought up to the standard desired.

Further, it is realized that many families are not in a financial position to afford the costs of adequate dental care. This matter was fully discussed at the annual health unit conference in Edmonton in November 1959 and it was felt by all health officers that some means must be found to bring the dentist to the outlying rural areas so that the children could receive the urgent treatment they need.

The health board of the Athabasca Health Unit here therefore decided to implement a preventive dental health programme during the summer months 1960. This will consist of transportable dental equipment which will be located in some of the schools in the area. A qualified dentist and dental assistant will be available and the treatment will be free to those children chosen to attend.

Owing to the large numbers of children requiring dental care, a survey has been undertaken in the lower school grades, and it has been decided to deal with those children who will be completing grade 1 this year. In addition, as many as possible of those children entering school in the fall of 1960 for the first time will receive the benefits of the service. If possible, the very urgent cases amongst grade two children may also be considered for treatment.

It is proposed to have the unit working in our area for about twelve weeks starting about the middle of June. Unfortunately, we are not able to extend the program for a longer period this year. This is because of lack of funds and also because the dentist and dental assistant cannot give more of their time to the program.

As much as we would like to see dental services available to all those children in need, all parents must realize that this is a 'Pilot' scheme and only those children requiring urgent care will be chosen to attend. The health unit will send out appointment notices to the parents of all children chosen to receive treatment and it is hoped that all will co-operate. It will be the responsibility of the parents to bring their children to the clinic at the appointed time. The success or failure of the programe will depend largely on the response of parents and it is hoped that all will give their fullest co-operation.

The program will consist of preventive dental treatment only. This will include the topical application of fluoride to the teeth, and in addition cleaning, filling, and extractions, where considered necessary. Due to the fact that all medical and dental authorities realize the importance of fluoride in the care of the teeth, application will be carried out where required. This fact should be understood by all parents and consent forms will be required to be signed before any child is given treatment.

The provisional plan is to locate the dental unit at Lac la Biche, Grassland, Boyle, Athabasca, Smith Kinuso, and Faust, in that order. The period of time the unit will stay at any one place will vary from one to three weeks depending on the number of children chosen for treatment in each area. In all cases the unit will be located in the local school.

Unfortunately, the essential equipment has not yet been received but it is hoped that it will arrive by the 11th of June, 1960, and that the unit will, it is hoped, start functioning on Monday, 13th June, 1960 at the Lac la Biche school. Every endeavour will be made to inform parents regarding appointments as early as possible.

It is stressed once again that this is to be a preventive programe only. The need for such a dental unit is great and is is hoped that all parents whose children are chosen to receive treatment will realise its benefits and co-operate. If the scheme should prove a success there is every hope of implementing a similar programe in 1961, and when enough funds become available, the health unit board intends to put a full-time mobile dental unit into operation.

Independence is something that the married man brags about.

Haymaking Is One Man Job, Says New Holland Dealer In Donnelly

Haymaking, long a tough but vital farm job, can now be handled by one man, reports Ray Maisonneuve, New Holland dealer in Donnelly.

For years, even after New Holland came out with the first automatic baler, it took from six to eight men to do the job, Ray recalls. As late as last year, he reminds, it still took two or three.

But now, Mr. Maisonneuve says, a farmer using a team of machines can do everything—mow and condition, rake, bale and store hay—all by himself.

Two developments make one-man haying possible, Ray explains. One is mechanical loading of bales in the field, and the other is a new kind of elevator-conveyor which moves baled hay into storage.

Bales are fed into a bale-thrower from the baler. They are fired into a trailing wagon and lie where they fall. This "random-stacking" eliminates the need for men to stack them.

The new elevator-conveyor carries the bales from the wagon into the mow and drops them off at any point. The farmer can trol a bale-locator from the ground by means of two ropes.

This system has been proved in field tests to save time as well as labor costs, Mr. Maisonneuve declares.

If the farmer uses a machine to dry his hay on the wagon, Ray adds, he can use New Holland's "Hay-in-a-Day" system in which machines handle each step in the haying job.

G. Nicolet & L. L'Abbe Hurt When Car Skids, Rolls Over

FALHER — Gilbert Nicolet and Lionel L'Abbe are patients at the Sacred Heart Hospital in McLennan following a car accident which occurred May 26 on the highway one mile east of the Watino hills.

When other help arrived he was rushed immediately to the hospital. Lionel L'Abbe was badly bruised but stayed home overnight. Next day he was taken to the hospital where X-rays showed a broken bone in his left leg.

DO YOU HAVE A TESTIMONY?

Do you have a testimony about God?

If you have ever trusted God for anything and received it, then you have a testimony. And if you have a testimony, it is important to give it to others, for a personal testimony is of great encouragement to others.

Mrs. Walter Pope of Pueblo, Colorado, has a testimony. Her son, Danny, was four years old before he attempted to speak. Often the child would come in from play looking very sad because other children made fun of his inability to talk.

Mrs. Pope took her son to a psychiatrist and a speech therapist, but to no avail. Then she took him to one of our Crusades in Wichita, Kansas. That was in 1953. Each evening Danny sat through the service, listening quietly; then one morning, even before his turn came to be prayed for, Danny spoke to his mother while she was preparing breakfast.

"Mother," he said distinctly, "when is breakfast going to be ready?"

What a testimony Mrs. Pope has had ever since the healing of her little son by the miraculous power of God! Today, six years later, Danny is in the best of health. He joins his parents in giving God the glory.

Oliver W. Carter of Portland, Oregon, has a testimony.

In 1953 he suffered from acute asthma. He continued to get worse. In 1957 a lung specialist diagnosed his case as tuberculosis and silicosis. In spite of an operation he continued to get worse.

Then he began to attend our Crusade in Salem, Oregon. With the help of his wife he stood in the prayer line and believed while he received the laying on of hands and prayer for his healing.

From that day on he improved. He regained his appetite and began to regain weight. Tests for tuberculosis were negative.

His doctor was surprised. "I have never seen a case like yours," he said. After several tests and X-rays, all of which proved he had recovered, Mr. Carter was released.

Today, because he believed, he has a testimony to the healing power of God.

Perhaps you, too, have wished you had a testimony which would help others along the way to a live faith in a living God. Every day we receive hundreds of letters from people all over the world testifying to God's willingness to answer prayer, testifying to God's goodness in many ways. Each of them rejoices that he has a testimony.

People who receive blessings from God are as pleased to have a testimony as they are pleased to have the blessings. It is wonderful to be blest by the Lord, and it is even more wonderful to have a testimony to his goodness.

Do you have a testimony?

Farm Safety Is A Joke

About this time each year, anyone who has followed the rural news items, will be convinced that it is not necessary to use bombs to eliminate the rural portions of the country—just provide enough farm machinery and the farmers will eliminate themselves.

It is only fair to point out that the percentage of farm machinery accidents is lower than our highway toll, but by the same token, far more is being done to reduce highway accidents than to reduce farm accidents.

Farm tractors are heavy and they tip far more easily than does a car, but apart from regular warnings from safety societies, the authorities do nothing.

A farm tractor is more dangerous than driving in the big 500 mile race at Indianapolis. When a race car rolls at 100 miles per hour the driver usually walks away. When a tractor rolls, they usually carry the farmer away, for good. The only difference is that these racing cars are required to be equipped with roll-bars which are simply steel supports standing up behind the driver's seat that are high enough so that if the car rolls it will rest when upside down on the steel bar and not on the driver. Oddly enough, it is in the sport-car races where these bars are not required that so many are killed.

A farm tractor is not beautiful by any stretch of the imagination. Weight is of no serious importance. Thus at a cost of a few dollars, every tractor could be equipped with roll-bars, and the operator would have a chance to survive.

Machinery bulldozing heavy trees, or handling dangerous types of rock or pipe are equipped with heavy steel cages about the operator. Nothing so heavy would be needed on a tractor.

Safety Gadget

There is an invention consisting of a type of pendulum that can be attached to a tractor and if it rears up too far or is operating on too much of an angle in any direction, this gadget will cut the ignition before it rolls. I am unable to learn if this invention is the answer, but I do know that neither it nor anything else is required equipment for a farm tractor.

They pay workmen's compensation for factory workers, and many factories still have too many accidents, but if you have ever examined a modern factory, it is amazing how far they go in protecting workers from the machines. They have to have guards over anything that can cut. There must be protectors against moving parts. The workers must wear special equipment if there is the faintest chance of an accident. In some jobs the worker must work in a steel cage, in other cases behind protective screens. There are machines that stop if a worker approaches too close. It is often hard to understand how a worker could contrive to get injured if he tried.

Yet, by comparison, a farm disk-harrow or tiller is a heavy machine with a row of sharp steel cutting wheels that are completely unprotected. One can fall on to them, or under them. The weight alone could be crushing. Yet there is not even the simplest guard to save a farmer who slips and falls near one. There are mowers and swathers and combines with rows of sharp cutting teeth and there is nothing to save anyone who might fall in front of such a machine. If an employer were to run a similar machine in similar condition in a factory, there would be a stampede of factory inspectors after him in a minute, and before that machine would be used again it would be fitted with more protective devices than you will find in a whole country of farms.

Still Take Chances

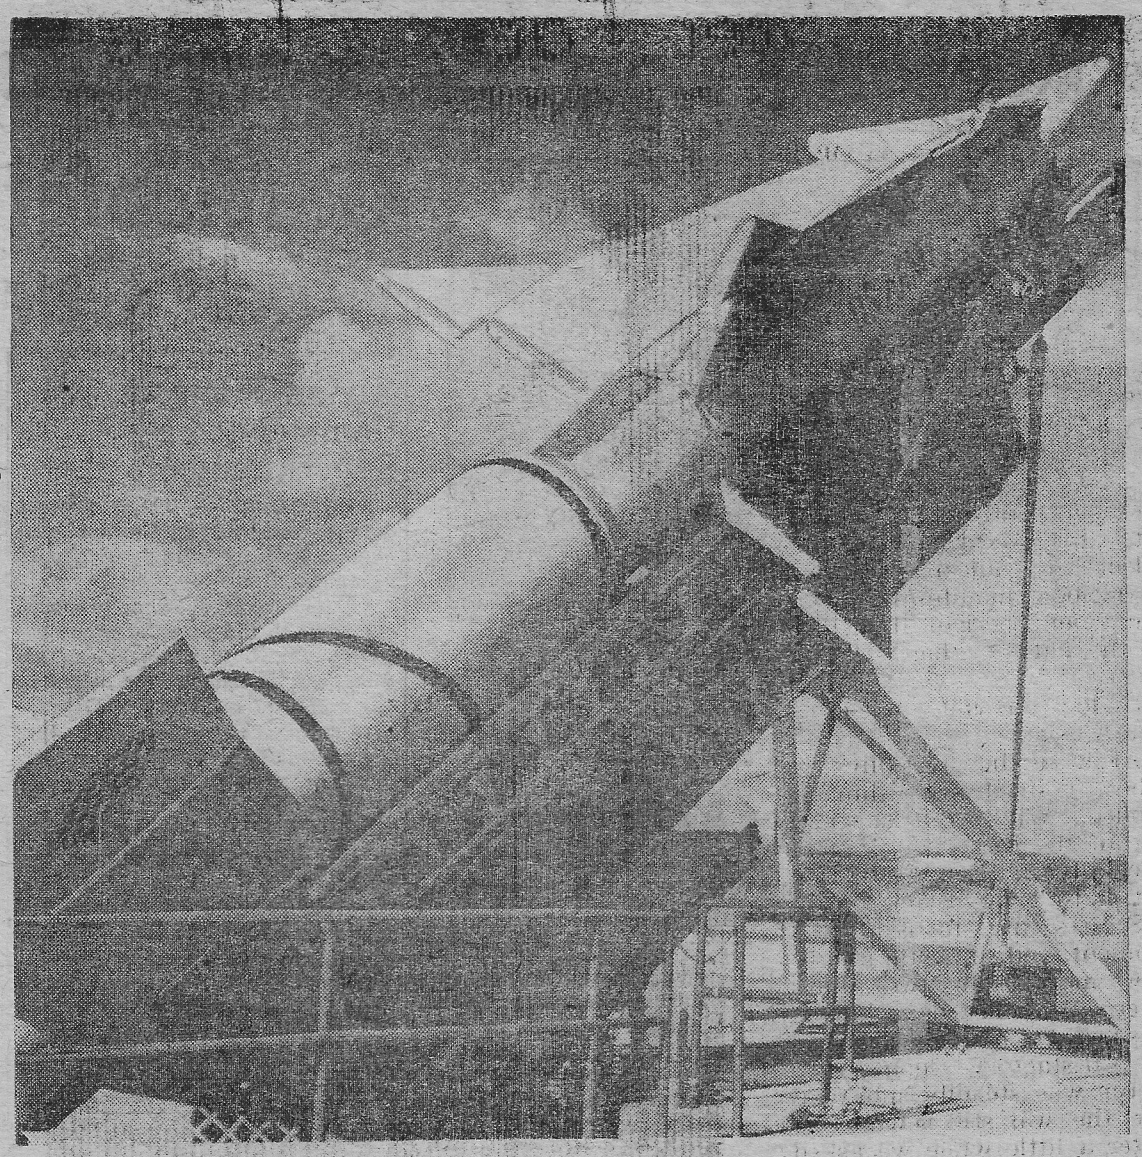
Farmers, like any other worker who becomes used to machinery, will take chances, and like workers of every kind they will remove protective devices that they find inconvenient and there will always be some who get killed or maimed for this reason. But while the factory worker does have the protective device that he can use unless he deliberately removes it, the farmer has nothing to protct him unless he builds it himself. It will be pointed out immediately that many farm machines do have certain protective devices. Some drive wheels, and machine parts are covered over, but I am referring to some of the over-all dangers of the machines themselves and for which nothing appears to be required.

Safety campaigns are useful. Training in the use of machines is essential. But all the talk in the world will not help the experienced man who slips and fall's into one of these big farm machines, or who has the machine fall on him.

All the safety campaigns and all the safety equipment in the world would not protect a factory worker if it was not compulsory to use it. All the safety ideas for cars will mean little so long as no one is compelled to use them and what applies to cars applies even more to farm machinery.

Safety equipment costs money. The manufacturer will not add it except by adding to the price and with close competition none will be anxious to equip a machine with expensive fittings. But if it became a law that all machines must be equipped with approved safety devices, just as your gas furnace must be equipped with costly safety devices, we will not see them.

The more you consider the dangers of farm machinery the more amazing it becomes that so few farmers are injured while operating them.



AT A U.S. ARMY BASE on Grand Island, near Niagara Falls, ready-to-go nuclear missiles could blast a Soviet plane from the sky just as quickly as the rocket that destroyed the U.S. spy-plane over Russia. There are two kinds of rockets there, the Nike-Ajax and the Nike-Hercules. Pictured above is the Nike-Zeus anti-aircraft missile on its launching pad. It is still under development, but in the future may offer Southern Ontario some means of protection from "spying" jets.

Survey Shows CBC Blamed For All Bad TV Programs

The CBC gets blamed for most anything, a recent survey conducted by the Alberta branch of the Canadian Association of Consumers, indicates.

For instance, if you don't like a program—any program—seen on a Canadian TV station, it must have been produced by the CBC, the CAC was told.

Believe it or not, many people think Edmonton has a CBC station. Possibly they think CFRN-TV just supplies the facilities for the announcer to say, "This is the CBC television network."

Most people, says the survey, are still confusing the CBC with the BBG.

The Board of Broadcast Governors which is the regulatory body for the air waves, established more than a year ago, is thought of as the CBC by a surprisingly large number of Albertans.

This information was provided by the CAC's Alberta branch to the BBG hearings held in Edmonton in May.

WELDERS WORK ON six-foot diameter pipe which are being fabricated in Edmonton for the new 150,000 kw addition to the Calgary Power generating station at Wabamun.

Pipe 88,000 Gals. Water Per Minute

Work is now well under way on the new 150,000 kilowatt addition to the Calgary Power generating station at Wabamun. Excavations for the foundations of the new building are now complete also trenches to take the 6 foot and 4 foot diamenter water inlet pipes. A diversion of the existing canal is underway to bring the lake water into the new part of the plant.

A check at the North Edmonton yard and fabricating shop of Alta Bend Ltd. showed the fabrication of the huge 6 foot diameter pipes to be nearing completion. These pipes are designed to carry a flow of water estimated at 88,000 gallons per minute from the lake through the plant and back to the lake again.

Most of the water is used for cooling the condensers and passes back to the lake after serving this purpose, but a proportion of it is by-passed through pre-filters to storage tanks, and is then passed through a treatment plant and used as "make up" feed water for the boilers.

Teacher's Salary Dispute Placed n UK Papers

The teachers and the Edmonton School Board are deadlocked in negotiations for a new contract.

Canadian Forces Not On Alert

OTTAWA — No Canadian units in North American Air Defence Command have been placed on an increased state of readiness, Defence Minister Pearkes informed the Commons.

Replying to Opposition Leader Pearson, he described as "quite untrue" the statement by a defence department spokesman in Washington that Canadian forces in NORAD were participating in a readiness alert exercise.

Mr. Pearkes added the NORAD maintains a normal alert at all times.

The Three Faces Of Eve

By Corbett H. Thigpen, M.D., and Hervey M. Cleckley, M.D.

Chapter 16

It was a remarkable scream. Wordless, primitive, sustained, it scarcely seemed human. Neither of us had ever heard from disturbed psychotic patients so strange and impressive an outcry.

Hurrying back across the hall, we were both in the therapist's office a moment after the weird shriek subsided. Still quickened by the physiologic manifestations of excitement we looked silently at the patient, then at each other.

"Which one is it?" one of us finally asked.

After further scrutiny the other, in sharp astonishment, replied, "Why . . . it isn't any one of the three . . . It isn't Jane. It isn't Eve White; and yet, it isn't Eve Black!"

So it seemed to us at that moment, and so it still seems, now more than two years later. We asked her who she was and she could give no clear or satisfactory reply. Her terror was steadily subsiding but she was still bewildered. After a little while we asked again who she was.

"I'm not sure . . . why, I can't tell," she finally murmured.

We did not press her further at this point for specific information.

KNEW OF OTHERS

We were able to transcribe by tape recorder a verbatim account of what followed. It was soon plain that, in contrast with Jane when she emerged approximately a year ago, this manifestation was by no means unequipped with memory. She knew a great deal about the experiences of Eve White, and also of Jane and Eve Black.

This young woman's immediate problem seemed to lie in identifying herself, of discovering and realizing just what and who she was.

As she talked with us, we both felt that this person was very much like Jane, far more like Jane than like either of the other two. Still neither of us could quite feel that this was Jane. On into the evening many points of great interest to us were discussed.

"When you asked me to let you speak with Eve White," she said, referring to the therapist's last request before the startling scream emerged, "when you asked for her, I suddenly realized, I am Eve White!"

"EVE WHITE IS DEAD"

It must have been a realization of dismaying intensity. For a moment it bleached her thought of content. Shaken deep within, as if by a subjective earthquake, there came now an opposite realization, a subsequent tidal wave of feeling.

"She isn't there . . . There isn't an Eve White any more . . . She's not there . . . Why, she's gone . . . gone . . . Dead . . . ? Yes, she's dead . . . no more . . . They're both gone forever!"

The sense of death now pressed upon her with sudden and fearful immensity. With this sense there flashed in sharp clarity before her the incident from long ago, when she and Flo had been playing under the house with the blue cup.

It was there, and then, that her mother had called her, telling her to come into the house and change her dress. Her grandmother's funeral . . .

Every detail of the scene now drenched her awareness. The lost memory stood forth in almost the freshness of immediate perception. The sad and solemn group of adults . . . the weeping . . . the uncanny stillness everywhere . . . the flowers, and the specific odor of those flowers . . .

"SHE ISN'T THERE," said the newcomer. There isn't any Eve White any more . . . Why, she's gone . . . gone . . . dead! . . . They're both gone forever!" Illustration from the 20th Century-Fox motion picture "The Three Faces of Eve".

GRANDMOTHER'S FUNERAL

For her it now became that very moment again. Her mother was holding her up high off the floor, and telling her she must touch her dead grandmother's face. Appalled by aspects of this situation that she did not fully comprehend, the young child shrank from this demanded contact.

Fragmentary ideas of death and desolation, which she had heard spoken of by adults during the grandmother's terminal illness and since her death, fears that had stirred for the moment and then been evaded by the little girl, all now coalesced into a horrible and incomprehensible immediate reality.

Her mother kept insisting that she must touch this immobile face in the coffin. She burst into tears, squirmed and struggled to pull away. Her mother, embarrassed and unnerved by the conspicuous display, intensified her insistence.

The force upon the young child seemed inexorable. Despite her horror she put her hand against the face of the corpse.

Hemmed in and frantic, she would plunge toward any promise of escape however dangerous and painful it might be. When her small warm hand left the cold flesh of this dead face, recognizable as the waxlike image of the grandmother she remembered alive, a devastating innuendo of mortality shook her senses.

SYMBOL OF DEATH

All her old horror of the ditch with the slimy water and of the drowned man who had been dragged from its noisome depths joined her reaction. The monster, scaly and murderous and inexorable which her imagination and that of other children had created as a symbol of death and horror and as the ever-threatening inhabitant of those fearful waters of the ditch became palpably real in the cold touch of her grandmother's corpse. She had cried out, as her hand moved forward:

"No, no . . . ! Oh, no, Mother . . . I can't . . . Don't make me do it." As her hand left the clammy cheek, all those fragmentary terrors fused into an unbearable reality. It was then that she had screamed.

Who was it that screamed again this afternoon in the doctor's office? A few days later our patient said, "It seems to me I can remember hearing someone scream. After I got home I could not be sure whether it was I or not."

In the searing intensity of the moment, a new unit had apparently been welded. What was this unit? It was difficult at this point to estimate her. In her background was the great cry of anguish and terror that in a sense marked her birth.

A BASIC CHANGE?

Had a great and basic change come about? Or were we merely dealing with another peculiar facet of a patient still as disordered as before?

Unlike the three other manifestations, who had always felt and known their own experiences and themselves as apart and sharply distinct from one another, our patient, now reacted as if she did not regard herself as altogether separate from the previous personalities. She did not find or seem to seek a new name for herself, as Jane had immediately done a year earlier.

As her initial bewilderment lessened that first afternoon and she became better able to mobilize her efforts toward finding herself, she showed an increasing tendency to identify herself with Jane. This began spontaneously and automatically, apparently on the basis of instinctive feeling rather than of deliberate thought.

The identification did not seem to be sure or complete, nor did she simply reject all the past experiences of the two Eves as alien. She found herself accepting some of these experiences as her own. Others remained as thoroughly isolated from her sense of self as they had been to the earlier.

MISSES EVE BLACK

After considerable discussion and deliberation, she decided to call herself Mrs. Evelyn White, our original patient's full legal name.

Later she reported that she had wept a great part of the day following the dramatic event in the office.

"I felt lonely, empty," she said. "There are so many ways to describe it."

What was she crying about?

"Eve Black chiefly, I believe. Doctor, I missed her so much. I was confused. I can't describe it. The shock of it was strange. They just weren't there any more. It made me feel awfully sad.

"At the time I wasn't missing Eve White. I was just missing Eve Black . . . I wouldn't have thought anyone could miss her in such a way . . . I knew something had to happen one way or the other . . . but then, you're going to miss them, too, aren't you?"

LOVES BONNIE

When asked about Bonnie, she said, as if quite surprised, "Why, I feel that she is my own little girl. Before, she was Eve White's child. Now she seems to be mine. I loved her, but not the way I do now."

We asked if it were possible for her to think of Eve White and Eve Black as not really lost but in a sense regained.

"I don't think so," she said, "at least not now. I feel I have really lost something. To other people it might seem another way.

"Suppose a screen had been put up in front of you. Now for a year you have two sisters. They are behind this screen but you know they are there. You are aware of them working, playing, living, though all the time the screen hides them. You know where they go and in a sense you go with them though you are then behind the screen.

FEELS DEPRESSED

"All of a sudden the screen is not there. And they are nowhere. I feel so depressed — something is missing. It is amazing how suddenly it came to me that they weren't there any longer. You can't help being lonely for them.

"I just wish I had known that it was the last time I would be with them . . . Looking back I have the feeling that Eve Black may have known she would never see you again. I don't understand how she could have known . . . When she started crying I began to realize something drastic was happening."

Referring to the last motion pictures made of the three personalities about two weeks before, she said:

"Doctor, you almost didn't get your movies. There was a difference in Eve Black even then, wasn't there? She didn't quite have the buoyance. I was surprised that she didn't.

SEEMED SORRY

"I am awfully sorry she didn't take that red dress (to Atlanta where the sound-movies were made). She seemed very sorry she didn't have it. I told the family it was her request that you have it now. If you want it, I will bring it to you."

"I think you should have it made over, "the physician suggested, "so you can wear it."

"No," she replied, "it's a dress you've never seen. It's real silk and bright red. It's slick and very shiny — a cocktail dress. There is no possible way to redesign it. I'd never want to wear it. Not so much because of the color — the dress itself. There's not enough material to alter it substantially. No woman outside of show business could wear it except Eve Black. No other woman would go outside the house with it on."

Next week the doctors explain what they think may have caused this strange case of multiple personality. (From the book "The Three Faces of Eve", copyright 1957 by Corbett H. Thigpen and Hervey M. Cleckley, and published by McGraw - Hill Book Co., Inc.) Distributed by The Register and Tribune Syndicate.

Fast worker... up to 12 tons per hour!

OLIVER No. 62-T BALER (Twine-tie)

Whether your crop is slick and dry or rank and tough, long-stemmed or short, this new 14 x 18-inch baler with Oliver's exclusive Roto-Flo feed produces bales of uniform density with minimum handling that saves more leaves. The 62-T has the highest capacity in its class, too; it gobbles up the heaviest bunches of material with smooth, positive action—up to 12 tons per hour, for as many hours as the job takes. The pick-up cylinder can't turn in reverse direction, thus saving spring tines from breaking or bending. And here are still more features that make the 62-T your best baler buy:

- Optional PTO or engine power
- Fast adjustable bale length—12 to 50 inches
- Hypoid-type main gearing withstands toughest conditions
- Simplified drive to packer fingers and feed mechanisms
- Low, smooth crown contour
- Straight double-knife slicing
